We Learn Today For Life Tomorrow

As Redskins meet the challenges of each new school day, they look toward the challenges of world citizenship and, at the same time, seek to establish personal security both socially and economically. New and greater problems, responsibilities, and adventures await each North Sider.

Today's students are preparing themselves for these challenges: enthusiasm, as well as colorful school spirit and traditions, parallels the effectiveness of their patriotism; social activities teach them to live harmoniously with each other; responsibilities that accompany school activities provide experience in leadership.

While at North Side, teenagers develop their skills into useful tools to promote success. With advice and guidance, they plan their efforts in the right direction.

Redskins are learning today for life tomorrow.

NORTH SIDE HIGH SCHOOL

Spirit And Traditions Exhibit Student Loyalty

Barb Rider shows boundless energy, enthusiasm, and ability which is characteristic of this year's varsity cheerleading squad.

Who can forget the chill that climbed up his back as he listened to the A Cappella at the Thanksgiving assembly, or when all the North Side fans were standing and cheering at the football game against Central Catholic even though the Redskin team was losing? Memorable events such as these contribute to the spirit and tradition of North Side and dramatize the loyalty of her students.

Adding life and personality to the name "North Side High School" are certain established traditions. Elite senior privileges bring honor to the final year; annual assemblies at the beginning of school and for special holidays lend to her spirit; inter-city rivalries in sports help make cause for a common loyalty among Redskins.

This loyalty to North Side will be reflected in a greater sense later as today's teenagers become active in business, labor, and world affairs. They are learning by experience the significance of tradition and fidelity.

Fans were greatly entertained by the humorous yells of the newly organized boys' cheer block. Along with B. Kelley, president, steering committee members S. Larimer, R. Harter, B. Mitchell, and S. Shimer set up rules by which it operates.

Unfortunate sophomores add a lusterous shine to a senior's car as they receive the traditional initiation of the newest class.

Toga-clad, Mr. Frederick issues a humorous decree at a pep session.

Frenzied fans run down on the floor to congratulate and compliment Redskin hoop-hitters after a city series victory.

New A Cappella members go through the initiation handed out by the old members at the fall picnic. Each initiate is portraying a character from a television commercial.

At parties, senior girls reminisced their past years in Domeland. Judy Cook and Marla Lantz exchange presents at a Christmas dinner given by Barb Rider in honor of everlasting friendship.

Parties, Picnics, And

Redskins are good at doing just about anything; but when it comes to having fun, they excel in arranging good entertainment. At after-game dances in the cafeteria they led some most invigorating activities during the past year. There was a renaissance of motion as guys and gals maneuvered to "The Twist," "The Pony," and "The Roach"; and the final chords of "Maria" seemed the perfect way to end the evening with that "special someone."

Social highlights of the year include the annual class events. Sophomores have their first class party; juniors enjoy their first prom. Reigning seniors treasure their banquet, the senior play, and the prom that is their last social function as a class.

The community, as well as the school, offers recreation for teenagers. Bowling, miniature golf, or skating, followed by a hearty snack, are available to those who prefer action in their fun. Listening to a concert, watching a play, or playing a game of bridge provide relaxation for some Redskins as they relieve their minds of weighty studies.

Autographing Legends takes up the last days of school as seniors sign the permanent memories of graduating friends and underclassmen discover the great number of people whom they have come to know.

Dates Provide Recreation And Companionship

Alice shows that men exist to be of service to women.

Seniors had a dripping time at Anne Hasting's pool party.

Future Leaders Gain

David Wyss receives a Rotary Club membership card as a climax to his four-weeks attendance at Monday-noon Rotary meetings.

Patty Johnstone and John Hull await the next challenge question in the sophomore round of High Quiz. This local program emphasizes the academic competence of the high school students.

The speaker's stand on the stage received a great deal of use during the school year. Senior class president Jim Roberts is one of many school leaders who spoke on significant occasions.

Experience Through Many Available Opportunities

In any organization as large as North Side, skillful and extensive leadership is needed in order for it to function smoothly. All aspects of activity at the "Dome" require leadership, and those students who fill these positions as leaders of classes and organizations gain valuable experience in working with others and getting the job done.

However, the weight of responsibility does not rest solely on those who are officers or editors or captains; each individual must assume certain responsibilities for his own duties in both academic and extra-curricular activities. It is this individual responsibility which is most important for the success of the student, the club, and the school. Through the fulfillment of everyday assignments and club projects, the student learns to work conscientiously and in co-operation with others while he is gaining in self-reliance and emotional maturity. All Redskins are given the opportunity to prepare themselves for the weighty responsibilities and obligations of the future.

At Nils Dyvad's party, Nancy, Maxine, and Sue receive a tip from Nils on how to make a sandwich . . . Danish style.

Redskins were completely overwhelmed by the captivating mood of the traditional Christmas assembly.

Redskins Display Creative Abilities In Hobbies

Through his ham radio, John Goller learns not only about electronics, but also about other people in his correspondence.

Whether it's chopping the top of an old coupe or adding the final swirl to the icing on a cake, many Redskins display a creative ability not brought out by academic studies.

North Side sponsors a variety of activities to further develop the special talents and interests of its students. Those who have talent in the field of acting and public performance have the opportunity to improve and exhibit their forte in the Senior Play and Varsity Varieties. Many medals have been won by vocalists and instrumentalists who have represented North Side in musical talents. Girls with nimble fingers bring honor to themselves and the school through exhibitions of skillful baton twirling.

Outside of school, pupils find time for building radios, collecting coins and stamps, taking pictures, or working on one of any number of special interests and hobbies. By participating in such activities, North Siders show that individual development is not determined by academic ability alone, but also by skills in a variety of activities. Working with people and creating products of the hands and mind lend well to developing a well-rounded character.

Preparing for future household tasks, Joan, Jeanne, and Judy practice baking crisp, tasty chocolate-chip cookies.

Teachers too have hobbies, and bowling is Mr. Byrle Lewis' winter pastime. In spring and summer, he chases golf balls.

And Skills; "Varsity Varieties" Has Top Talent

For seniors, the finale marked the end of a high-school stage career; for underclassmen, it was just the beginning.

Intriguing dances, all-cast spectacles, hillside humor, and music for all moods made the 1962 Varsity Varieties truly full of variety. Moods changed as fast as the brilliant lights of the stage as an all-school cast entertained audiences in two performances, March 1 and 2.

Following a lively opening dance number, a group of thespians showed how to get a girl married the hillbilly way in "Itchin' to Get Hitched." An almost tragic story of a dancer and her image in a mirror switched the mood in "Reflection." With a flood of blue lights, a "Romantic Interlude" set hearts throbbing as the audience listened to some of the most beautiful music of the show. The spectacular end of the first act, "Oriental Intrigue," resulted in John the Baptist losing his head in a shimmering gold scene. In the second act, several Aborigine faculty members had problems with their boomerangs in "Native Enchantment." The audience saw one bit more of hillbilly humor as the Kentucky Kernels attempted to sing. Leaving Kentucky, the cast gathered its talents to produce the finale, "Latin American Fantasy."

Susie Heffley served as student director of this year's show; Lynda High was the choreographer.

Mr. James Purkhiser and Mr. C. W. Hatt are presented with gifts from the cast in appreciation of their time, effort, and hard work.

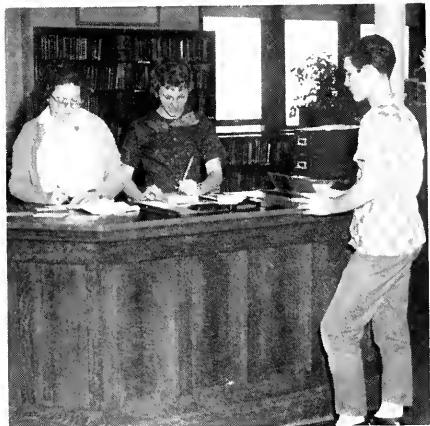

School Service Gives Chance To Help In Offices

During every school day hundreds of memoranda are delivered by those students who have volunteered to serve the school and its administration. This service is invaluable to the efficient operation of the school.

The task of taking attendance is an enormous one in a school the size of North Side. Absence slips must be collected each period from every class, taken to study hall, and recorded. This involves a good deal of walking on the part of the boys and some accurate pencil work by the girls who help with this job.

The familiar yellow slips from the guidance offices are distributed through the efforts of school service volunteers, as are special packages for teachers. Boys who work in the athletic office perform an important duty by watching over the valuables of those in gym classes. Always ready to direct visitors to the right place are those pupils who spend their free time at the information desk.

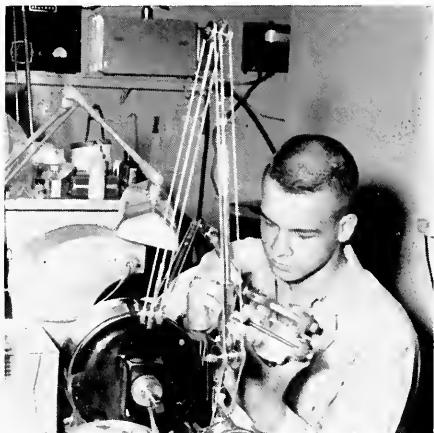

Library workers check the never-ending flow of books.

Mark Krieg assists the main office staff by answering calls.

Redskins Taste Labor; Find Money Is Sweet

Concentrating on somebody's new set of dentures, Jim Orcutt carefully drills on an expensive plate. In his summer job at a dental lab, Jim learned to do worthwhile technical work.

Apprentice butcher Tom Cross slices off a round steak.

Money plays an important part in the life of many teenagers, and money usually means work. In order to buy the clothes they want, go out on dates, drive cars, and, perhaps most important, go to college, a great number of Redskins have found employment in the community.

The Youth Employment Service aids in finding summer jobs for those who apply; a similar service for part-time work during school is performed by North Side's guidance department. These services are similar in that they do not seek employment for the teenager, but rather recommend him when an employer requests the aid of a young person. The resulting jobs cover a wide range, including carry-out boys at grocery stores, service station attendants, department store clerks, and babysitters. Some jobs aid the teenager in preparing for a career, giving him valuable on-the-job experience besides an income.

Al Haney brought smiles to many faces while working as Santa.

Mrs. Young suggests to Senior Jack Hamilton that he apply for a scholarship at the school which he has chosen.

Guidance Program Helps In Scheduling Classes And

Thursday morning guidance periods often entail class assemblies. This assembly is for the nomination of sophomore officers.

Mr. Lewinski spent many hours preparing for the programs in philosophy, which were for seniors. He gave two lectures to define some philosophical ideas and organized a student panel to discuss the applications of philosophy in daily living.

In Choosing Colleges

Redskins are fortunate to have such a wide scope in their guidance program. This year, it included numerous speakers and assemblies.

Mrs. Grace Pennington served as counselor for the sophomores. She helped administer their special orientation program, which is to be expanded and made more thorough in the future. Speakers who presented material to the sophomores include Rev. Larry Loving, Plymouth Congregational Church; Earl Schwalm, President, Lincoln National Bank; Dr. Dayton Musselman, Fort Wayne Community Schools; Louis Bloom, lawyer; and Mrs. V. G. Young.

The junior program, directed by Mr. Charles Hinton, presented as speakers Robert Zimmerman, Staff Assistant, Geyer Junior High; Mrs. George Hacker, Purdue Center; Miss Louise Brumbaugh, psychologist; Miss Katie Sizer and Miss Shirley Pend, Lincoln Life; Maralyn Neuman and Bernice Jenkins, State Employment; and Mrs. Young.

The senior guidance program featured a three-week discussion of philosophy by Mr. James Lewinski and a series of speakers. All seniors were required to take the PSAT.

Mrs. Jean Wehrenberg helps sophomores plan class schedules.

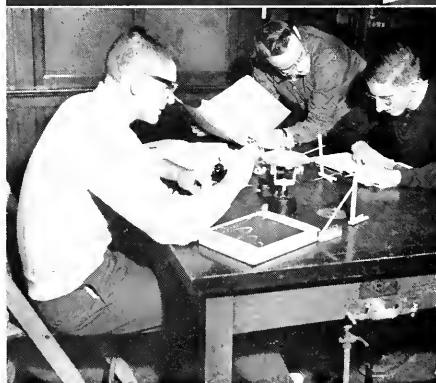

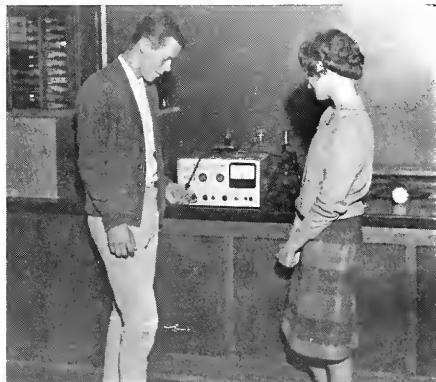

We Learn Through Study

"Come, let us reason together." This quotation from the "Song of Solomon" is the invitation offered students by the academic system of North Side High School. Although extra-curricular activities and social events are necessary for the development of well-rounded citizens, the principal aim of the school system is to provide each student with an education which enables him to think and reason as a mature individual. To provide this education, North Side offers the following courses: Academic, Business Academic, Business, and General. Various classes are instituted in these courses to allow for the needs of each individual student. These various classes around the Dome are basic to the development of the well-rounded citizen in the school, the community, and the country.

Sulfur Odors, Crawling Insects, And Lab Sheets

Anything from bugs to bombs can be studied in the North Side Science Department. The new chemistry lab provides better facilities for experiments in these various fields, and enables the students to explore the wonders of the world of science. In remodeling the lab, the tabletops were replaced, the floor was resurfaced, and a lecture study area was added at the back of the room.

A course added this year is an advanced physics class organized by the Physical Science Study Committee to give students a chance to probe deeper and experiment further in the field of physics.

Every student is required to have at least two credits in science. To obtain these, he has a variety of courses to choose from, including biology, botany, chemistry, physics, earth science, and zoology.

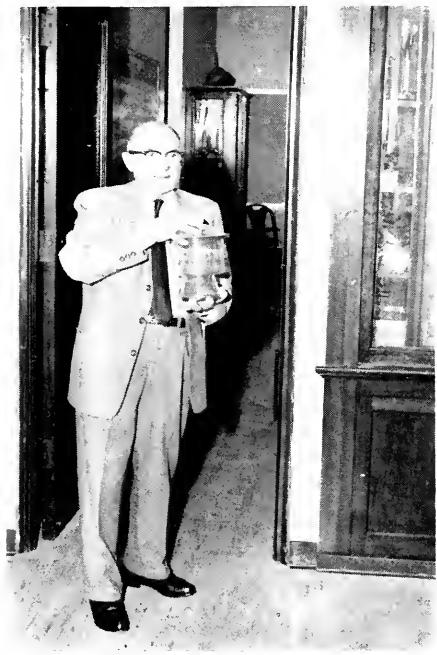

Studies in the science department help Redskins to reason scientifically and objectively. They also give a basic understanding of the laws of nature and the universe. Chemistry and physics increase their knowledge of the composition of the universe and the forces that rule it. Zoology, biology, and botany give an insight into the seven basic functions of plant and animal life. Earth science adds to the curriculum of the department the study of the earth, its structure and the elements.

Marsha Strebig looks on as Jim Tennant shows her the technique of operating Mr. Lewton's radioactivity equipment.

Paula King gets ideas from a botany leaf collection in preparation for making one of her own later on.

Larry Weaver, Jim Coen, and Dave Feustel study masses by the use of balances they made in the advanced physics class.

Challenge Scientists

Mr. Thomas completes the last minute preparations in supplying the new chemistry lab for this year's pursuers of science.

Bob Romy appears fascinated as Jean Sweeny compares her text book descriptions to the feathered specimens before her.

Dave Wyss and Kenton Griffis perform an experiment in the advanced chemistry class under Mr. Lewis' direction.

The curve of $x^2+2x+1=y$ is a problem of the type that often confronts math students. At least one unit of math is required for graduation. Algebra or general math are usually the courses taken for this required credit. A variety of more advanced courses are offered for students who must increase their mathematics credits or for those who wish to take the advanced work for their own personal mathematical ability. Some of the courses provided for this study are plane and solid geometry, trigonometry, and advanced and college algebra.

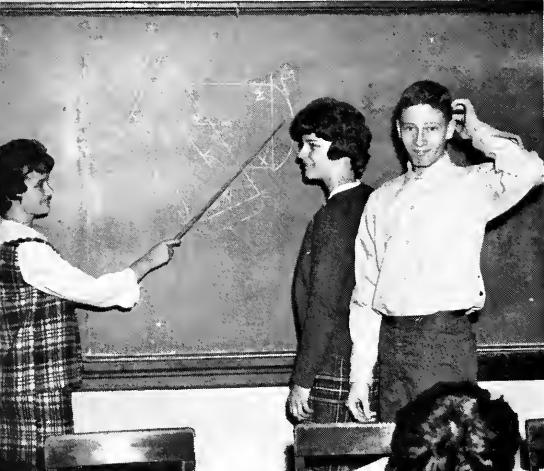

General math gives a basic background in arithmetical fundamentals, algebra indoctrinates students with the principles of logical and orderly thinking through the solving of equations with unknown factors. Geometry furthers this trend of logical thought by the orderly solving of problems through inductive and deductive reasoning. Trigonometry combines the fundamentals of algebra and geometry in an attempt to further this reasoning power.

Each of these courses provides the student with one part of the overall purpose of the department which is to help students organize their thoughts and think things through systematically.

Mr. Bickel shows Peggy Dunn the proper methods of operating a calculator. This knowledge will help Peggy in solving difficult and involved math problems.

Mathematics Students Explore Abstract Science

Demonstrating the use of the slide rule, Don Prosser explains a difficult math problem to a baffled and bewildered Mark Krieg.

Joe Virgilio appears to be baffled by the complicated problem Ann Johnston and Pat Petznik are so easily solving.

Business Students Learn How To Handle Money

Typical business students participate in class discussion on business law.

Pat Medley seems to be slightly amazed as she tries to read the surprising results of what she has just typed.

Students in business classes have the opportunity to learn business organization and office procedure. Among the classes in the business department are business, bookkeeping, typing, shorthand, filing, and clerical practice.

Redskins wishing to go directly into office work after graduation may enroll in these courses to get the basic skills necessary for such work. Some, however, may wish to go on to further education in business. Many students on the academic course wish to take typing or shorthand to improve their study habits for their own personal benefit. The business department provides Redskins with vocational training and a chance to further their own personal knowledge.

English Study Teaches Better Communication

Using the new opaque projector, Mr. Lewinski points out a few common errors in composition to an English class.

Steve Hickman points out one of the many interesting aspects of the Globe Theater to Audrey Shepelak and Kay Nemyer.

Vocabulary tests, term papers, and floor talks enable students to express their knowledge of grammar principles, concepts of literature, and vocabulary. The study of Shakespeare's plays and other great literature provides the opportunity for students to enrich their background in the classics. Studies in composition, grammar, and vocabulary aid them in communicating with others.

An opaque projector for projecting written material on a screen was added to the department this year. This along with the reading accelerators, records, and film strips helps provide an interesting variation in the curriculum.

During the sophomore year the department strives to give a background in the classics by the study of Silas Marner. In the junior year this background is furthered by the study of Macbeth and the works of great English authors. During their final year, seniors study other works of poetry and prose both modern and classical.

To help overcome the difficult pronunciation problem encountered in French, Diana Delinger and Carole Laws listen for errors in their previously recorded recitation.

Languages Bring World's People To Classroom

"Puer est," "Comprenez-vous?" and "Como-está usted," are frequently heard around the Dome from foreign language students. Strengthening English vocabulary, learning about the country, and developing skill in another language are some of the goals of the Foreign Language Department.

In French and Spanish classes records and magazines are used to help acquaint the students with pronunciation and the language as it is being used now. Latin students are offered movies along with a variety of maps and outside reading books to supplement their course of study.

The advanced Latin, French, and Spanish classes do more reading in their language as they attempt to become more skilled in using the language. In the spring, a Latin trip, as well as country-wide tests for Spanish and French students, offer a change in the regular schedule.

At Christmas time, the sounds of carols can be heard ringing from corridor to corridor. Latin classes send carolers around the halls with Christmas cheer.

Molly Thompson, Dave Stubbins, Connie Timma, and Herb Summers observe a plastic replica of a Roman soldier.

Interpreting poetry and works of prose is the present task facing Becky Spice. An essential part of her speech course, this reading is being taped to be criticized by fellow students.

Wobbly knees, clammy hands, and butterflies are common symptoms which speech students often contract before giving a speech.

Effective speaking and a knowledge of the fundamentals of speaking are the goals of the speech department. Speech 1 and 2 give students an opportunity to learn and practice public speaking. Among the various types of speeches given during class are speeches to convince, secure action, inform, and impress. Through this students may gain skill in self-expression and speaking before an audience. As a supplement to this Redskins may participate in several speech contests during the year.

The history of the theater and dramatics, along with methods of producing plays and acting in them is a part of Speech 3 and 4. Students may also learn proper stage techniques. They may exercise their abilities by participating in the annual Varsity Varieties.

Orators Try For Perfection In Art Of Speaking

Behind the scenes at a puppet show, Mr. Purkhiser directs the rehearsal of puppeteers Pat Mullins, Susie Heffley, and Linda

High. This play, which was presented at a children's program, is an example of the type of work done in dramatics classes.

The study of the Civil War is a major and important portion of the United States history course. Steve Carleson and Eric Beebe point out the few battles of that war which occurred in Indiana just across the Ohio River. Pat Tweedy and Carol Lash check to see if the boys have arrived at the same location as was pointed out by their teacher in a class lecture.

"Babylon To Cold War" Is Topic In History

Geography and World Affairs, the study of foreign lands and their cultures in relation to current events, has been added to the regular courses this year.

Other courses offered in this department also help to enrich the understanding of world events and the basis of modern civilization. The study of World History gives students a background in the basic principles of civilization. American History and Government together present the origin and fundamental ideals of our country. To provide an understanding of the sources of our country's wealth, Economics is offered. Sociology adds the study of people and their adaptability to society.

This study of events past and present better prepares Redskins for assuming the responsibilities of informed citizens.

Joan Shimer points out a strategic location on the map while giving her current events report in a government class.

A group of music students get together for an informal jam session.

Pleasant Notes Arise From Mouths, Instruments

Various melodies ring through the halls from time to time during the day. These sounds come from both the vocal and instrumental sections of the music department, under the direction of Miss Jeanette Rich and Mr. C. William Hatt, respectively.

The vocal department includes Girls' and Male Choir, Varsity Choir, A Cappella, Chansonettes, Triple Trio, Madrigals, and Chicas Cantantes. Experience gained through these groups helps to increase the students' appreciation of music.

The Band, Varsity Band, and Orchestra provided the opportunity for participants to exercise their musical abilities in a group situation.

This department provides students with an outlet for their energy, a worthwhile pastime, and an insight of the qualities of good music. Students may round out their personalities as well as gain enjoyment and appreciation.

Sherry McKay practices a difficult passage in a song she is preparing for a solo. Miss Rich lends her assistance.

Raising their voices joyously, this group of veteran vocalists harmonizes in an informal practice session.

Sally Johnson finds her craft class an unusual experience in art. Creating jewelry of silver is her present assignment.

Self-expression, Beauty Come From Art Rooms

Expression of beauty and creativity are the goals of the art department. Students may attempt to reach these goals through any number of activities. These include sculpturing, painting, sketching, abstract design, graphics, and ceramics. This helps to provide hobbies and enjoyment that can remain a part of the future lives of Redskins. It also may increase their appreciation of fine art while building their personalities, an important part of every student's education and maturing process.

Field trips on several instances throughout the year provide a varied curriculum for art students. Making decorations for dances and other special events give students an interesting diversion from their regular work while they perform a service for the school.

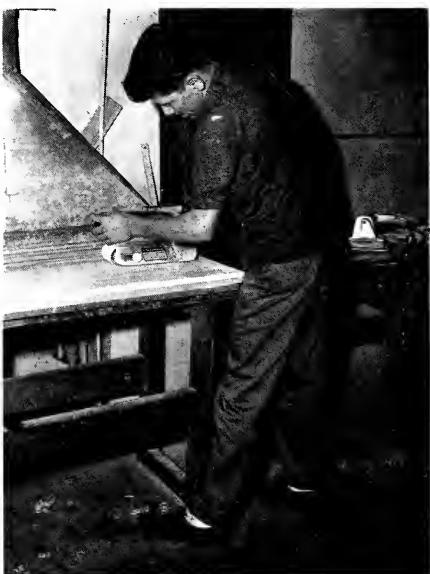

Industrious Art 1 students appear to be extremely engrossed in their latest project, a pencil sketch of a city block.

Ron Franke watches intently as Sue Leamon carefully creates a design with letters, similar to those in the background.

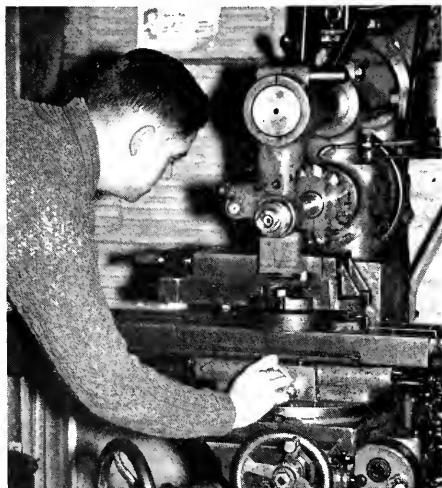

These industrial arts students prepare to build a fire in the forge to shape raw material into useful handmade implements.

Jim Bieber seems very engrossed in his industrial arts project, for which he is carefully sanding a piece of lumber.

Vocation Instruction And Home Economy Train

Dick Hobson increases his mechanical ability while working on a project involving the milling machine.

Flying sparks and the smell of sawdust are common sights and smells around the various industrial arts classes at the Dome. In these classes, including wood, drawing, and metal, boys learn to handle tools and design all sorts of things from lamps to office buildings. In wood classes the boys choose a special project on which they work the whole semester. Metal classes are assigned a semester project to work on which will acquaint them with all of the various types of machines. Drawing classes give the boys an understanding of the principles of mechanical drawing. From these drawing tables come basic plans for all shop projects.

These manual arts courses give the boys a background in using tools and machines which should be of aid to them if they choose to enter a field involving manual skills after high school. Whether they enter this type of profession or not, these courses are designed to be helpful in solving everyday problems which may arise at anytime.

As Becky Barcus checks to see if the oven is preheated, Mary Wilkins and Anna Ladig get more ingredients out of the refrigerator to add to the dish Mary Lou Guisinger is cooking. When all preparations are done the girls will have a feast.

Teens For Future Jobs

Girls and even a few guys around the Dome prepare to become future homemakers in the Home Economics Department. In food classes the students learn how to make their meals nutritious as well as pleasing to the eye and to the palate. After preparing their meals, the girls arrange the tables in formal or informal settings, as the occasion calls for, and then sit down to partake of the feast.

Students in clothing classes make all types of clothing from party dresses to pajamas. In doing this they learn not only about materials but also about the techniques of sewing. After completing their project, the girls put on a style show for the PTA to exhibit what they have accomplished.

Both sewing and food classes aid students in preparing for the days when they will be homemakers. This study also provides, in many cases, a basis for further vocational training.

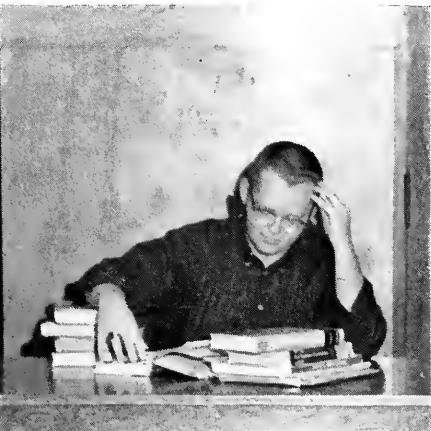

Sara Thiel and Janet Wildey work diligently to put the finishing touches on a dress created in a clothing class.

The home, school, and library are common haunts of the studious Redskin. At school an academic atmosphere is provided by study hall, honor study hall, the library, and occasionally students can be seen studying at the information desk. Honor study hall has been revised this year. Student Council has general supervision of all the honor study halls, with one member in charge of each period. This system not only gives the opportunity to practice self-discipline, but also acts as an incentive for underclassmen who may work for admission.

The regular study hall, under the direction of Mrs. Coomey and Mr. Becker, provides students with a place to study as well as to find a break in the day's classroom activity. The libraries, both public and school, enable students working on term papers or other special reports to make use of various types of reference material as well as to secure books for relaxation and enjoyment.

Industrious North Siders may find sanctuary for study purposes at home. Here the studious laborer may, if he wishes, refresh himself from time to time with a nourishing snack.

Redskins Seek Various

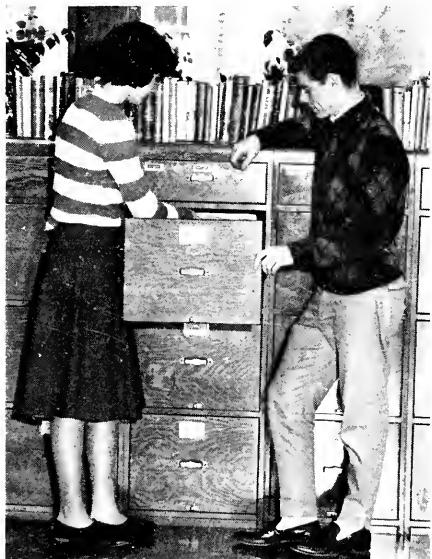

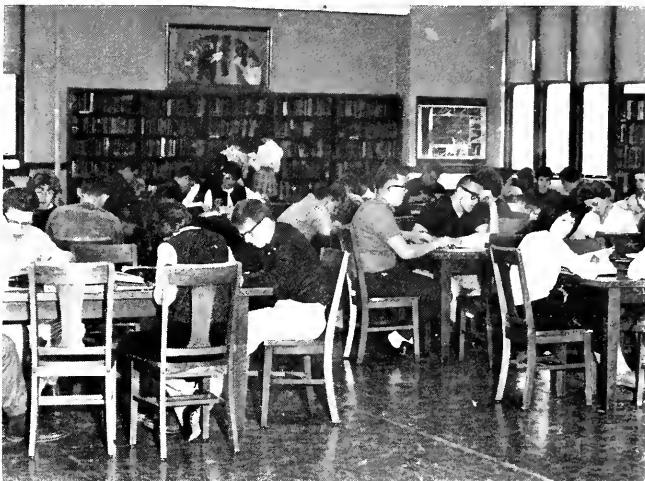

Finding respite at the information desk, Larry Scott studiously tackles the day's accumulation of assignments.

In the informal atmosphere of the cafeteria, honor study hall members study their lessons and relax with friends.

Atmospheres For Research, Concentrated Study

In the quiet atmosphere of the school library many students study or just read for enjoyment.

Student librarian Connie Boldt helps Dan Smith find useful reference material from the library's files for a report.

Tired, but undaunted, Myron Huffman stretches after facing a long bout with the books and a tangle of the day's assignments.

North Siders Learn To Be Healthy, Drive Safely

If Mr. Roy Kline walks into class looking as white as a sheet and trembling, chances are he is just returning from a drivers training class. This class is to instruct students in the proper techniques of driving, while giving them actual experience in driving a car under supervision.

Health classes acquaint students with the workings of the body, proper diet, keeping good health, and proper mental attitudes. Notebook projects, and movies supplement the course of study.

Family living enables students to understand problems encountered in adult life. They may gain a knowledge of family psychology and human relations.

These courses combined strive to prepare Redskins for a happier, healthier life as well-adjusted citizens.

Shirley Keller illustrates her health report on extra sensory perception with various drawings on the board.

Steve Larimer and Linda Murphy have the responsibility of preparing the bulletin board in their family living class this week.

Topping off the academic part of the year is Recognition Day. On this day an assembly is held to give recognition to those students who have done an outstanding job in their studies all year. Receiving an award or honorable mention on Recognition Day is a goal which may provide incentive for Redskins to work and study to the best of their ability.

Ribbons are awarded for excellence in specific courses, but they are not the only awards given. Plaques are awarded for such honors as valedictorian and salutatorian along with the Sertoma trophy for boys' athletics and many other trophies for such things as debate, foreign languages, art, and speech. The name of the person to whom these are awarded is printed on the trophy, which goes on display awaiting next year's winners.

As he comes down the stairs, Len Boner proudly displays the ribbons he was awarded on Recognition Day.

Students Gain Confidence Through Recognition

Mr. Robertson and Mr. Thompson examine and prepare the trophies for this year's winners.

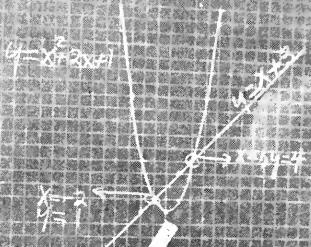

We Learn Through Instruction

Because we are living in the Atomic Age today, teachers are faced with far more educational problems than ever before. To help us prepare for our future years, the faculty not only tries to teach the fundamentals of subjects, but also tries to instruct students in how to apply this knowledge in everyday life. Through classroom instruction Redskins are able to develop their talents and discover new ones.

In addition to classroom duties, many of the faculty have devoted much of their time to class activities and school clubs. At home, teachers must carry out domestic responsibilities in addition to participating in church and civic organizations. In spite of their busy schedules, the Redskin teachers take time to give guidance to those seeking it. It is through their dedication to teaching that Redskins are inspired to greater accomplishments.

Mr. Robertson's Service Guides All Redskins

Mr. Robertson takes a break from his pressing desk work to glance at the weather conditions before the dismissal bell rings.

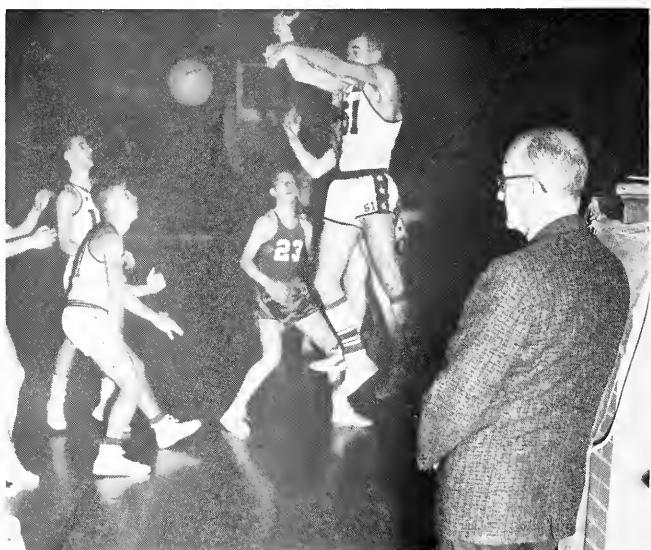

An ardent supporter of the Redskins teams, Mr. Robertson watches a pre-game warm-up session.

Each school morning the sound of four chimes peals out of the public address system. This signifies the beginning of another day of hard work for the students of North Side, as well as for the person at the other end of the loud speaker: Mr. O. Dale Robertson, serving in his ninth year as the Big Chief at the Dome. Attending meetings, talking to parents and evaluating new teaching methods are just a few of the everyday topics that confront North Side's principal.

With all of the daily duties of Mr. Robertson, he still finds time to be in attendance at North Side athletic functions, student council meetings, and special club and class get-togethers.

A member of Wayne Street Methodist Church, Mr. Robertson instills within every Redskin a weekly measure of religion with his Monday morning scripture readings. In his spare time, North's principal finds moments in which to read a book, or play an occasional game of golf.

Mr. Robertson is a fine example of a devoted educational leader, striving for the spiritual and mental development of all students who pass through the portals of the Dome.

Reviewing a PTA Newsletter are the officers of the North Side group, seated, Mrs. Walter Heintz, Mrs. Mark Krieg, Mrs. J. C. Orcutt, Mrs. Robert Smith, and standing, Mr. Myron Henderson.

Grile Initiated Into City School Superintendency

Mr. Lester Grile, Superintendent of Fort Wayne City Schools, is in his initial year at this position. He has previously been the Assistant Superintendent in Fort Wayne, and has held other educational positions in the "Summit City."

A busy man, Mr. Grile, besides being confronted with the everyday problems a man in his position would meet, has also had to cope with the problems encountered in the changing city school system.

His first year's work can well testify for him that the future years in the local system will be beneficial to Fort Wayne citizens as well as to himself.

Deans, Guidance Counselors Encourage Redskins

Mr. Bill Anthis, Domeland Dean of Boys, thoughtfully decides the most effective way to present the next guidance program.

North Side's Dean of Girls, Mrs. Victoria Young, straightens up the college booklets to make them easier for students to find.

Mr. Charles Hinton, guidance counselor, judges the merits of a vocational display posted in the guidance room.

Mrs. Victoria Young and Mr. Bill Anthis are two of the busiest people at the Dome.

As Dean of Girls, Mrs. Young is a willing and comforting listener to the troubles of all of North Side's female students. Also taking up much of Mrs. Young's time is the job of advising students concerning choices of colleges and future scholarship possibilities. Almost every North Side student will, at one time or another, browse through Mrs. Young's bounteous supply of college catalogues and pamphlets. Mrs. Young's helpful and encouraging attitude is greatly appreciated around the Dome.

Mr. Bill Anthis, Dean of Boys, is responsible for the vocational and personality tests given to all Redskins during their high school years. He also helps to plan the many informative and interesting guidance assemblies that North Side students attend throughout the year. At the sign of Mr. Anthis' broad smile, a student knows he is seeing a true, understanding friend.

Mr. Charles Hinton and Mrs. Grace Pennington are in their initial years as guidance counselors. Mr. Hinton advises the members of the junior class and Mrs. Pennington the sophomores.

We Learn Through Friends

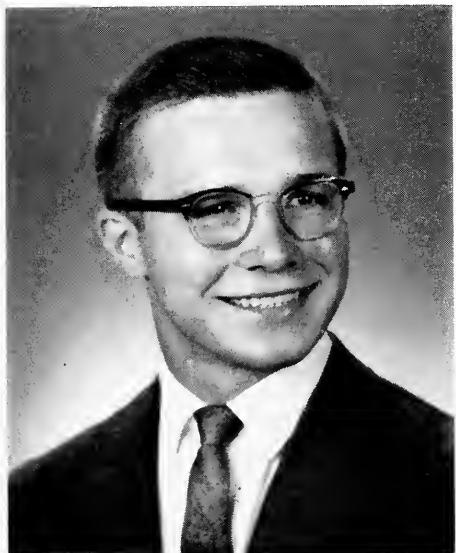

For the first time in the history of North Side, people have not seen anxious freshmen dodging from class to class to avoid the traditional hazing by new upperclassmen. The six-three-three system has been completely instituted in the Fort Wayne Community Schools, and now the ninth graders spend an additional year in the newly constructed junior highs. As a result, the sophomores were subjected to fall initiations,

Even though there are now only three Redskin classes, the population has not decreased. This year's sophomores were members of the largest class ever to enter the "Dome," and next year's tenth graders will be even greater in number. With nearly two thousand pupils, North Side offers many opportunities for individuals to become affiliated with groups which suit their interests. In these groups, they may develop life-long friends and gain lasting experience in getting along with others.

David Wyss, Judith Leach Set Pace for Seniors

Valedictorian David Wyss

Valedictorian David Wyss plans to study science and mathematics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology next fall and hopes for a career in some area of science, especially applied mathematics or organic chemistry. A National Merit Scholarship winner, he is one of the few persons to make a perfect score on the mathematics test of the College Board examinations.

High attainment in scholarship, as well as experience in extra-curricular activities, has been a part of Dave's high school life. His majors are English, mathematics, science, and social studies; his minor is Latin. He has been president of the Math Club, vice-president of NFL, a Northerner agent, and an audio-visual operator, and a member of JFL, JCL, and Student Council.

Music and reading provide outside interests for him; debate activities are a favorite school-associated project. Dave has also been active in the Walther League, the youth group of his church.

Because of her interest in Spanish and to supplement her language studies in high school, Salutatorian Judith Leach spent three weeks of last summer at a Spanish workshop for high school students in Mexico. She will continue her language studies in college next year, perhaps eventually on a foreign study program, for she is considering a career as a translator in the diplomatic service.

Interest in languages has also led her to correspond with pen pals in foreign countries, an outside activity she enjoys along with reading. The Methodist Youth Fellowship and Fort Wayne Astronomy Club also occupy her time outside of school.

Judy has majors in English, social studies, and Spanish, with minors in science and mathematics. Her extra-curricular activities include library service, chorus, Northerner, JFL, Globetrotters, Helicon, Polar Y, and MLC.

Salutatorian Judith Leach

Class of 1962 Includes 64 Honor Graduates

The four-year honor roll is made up of seniors who have attained a ninety or above grade average in their four years at North. Those who qualified by maintaining the average are Edward Bower, Jerry Buckmaster, Judith Bulmahn, James Coen, Nancy Coleman, Judith Cook, Judith Delk, Alice Espich, Richard Findley, Paul Gilpin, Kenton Griffis, John Hamilton, Anne Hastings, Karen Hawk, Ann Huth, Sally Johnson, Sherry Kammer, Jill Koontz, Susan Korn, Marla Lantz, Judith Leach, Susan Leamon, M. Luann Lee, Steve Leggett, David Lowdermilk, Linda Mast, Rebecca McArthur, Ellen Meier, James Metzler, Frank Miller, James Orcutt, R. Sue Oswald, Janine Peters, Marilyn Reiter, Teresa Richard,

James Roberts, Anne Rogers, Elizabeth Rolland, Robert Ruch, Richard Schlatter, Sharon Schultz, Larry Scott, Karen Seibert, Margaret Slack, Linda Smith, Leslie Snyder, Stephen Troyer, Richard Ungerer, Robert Van-Every, Don Walker, Larry Weaver, Charles Wehrenberg, Sharon Witmer, Nancy Woltz, Jane Hubbard Wortinger, and David Wyss.

Eight other seniors, who have attended North Side less than three years have honor grades for their work at North Side. They are Michele Coleman, Dennis Massey, Linda Mullett, Alice Neuhauser, Fran Puff, Joyce Reynolds, Lorraine Schwartz, and Patricia Wilson.

The advisers for the senior class this year were Mr. Thompson, Miss Stirling, Mr. Simon, Miss Bash, Miss Rothenberger, Mrs. Fisher, Mr. Pockell, Mr. Light, Miss Cleary, Mr. Gerald Miller, Miss Rich, Mr. Henderson, Miss Hattendorf, Miss Shideler, Mr. Volz, Mr. Mertes, and Mr. Hatt. Absent when the photo was taken were Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Gause, Mr. Goon.

Class Leaders Plan Progress, Good Times For '62

The Senior class officers are, seated, Teresa Richard, secretary-treasurer; Bill Kelley, Jack Breese, and Ron Crabill, social council; standing, Dick Ungerer, social council; Steve Harris, vice-president; Tom Garman, social chairman; and Jim Roberts, president.

With the election of Jim Roberts, president; Steve Harris, vice-president; Teresa Richard, secretary-treasurer; and Tom Garman, social chairman, the senior class of 1962 was off to its official start. These officers, along with the social council, were responsible for the planning and arrangements for the many senior activities. The senior play, banquet, and prom were some of the seniors' social functions. Throughout the year, several class meetings were held to discuss various situations and problems concerning the class.

Through the leadership and guidance of the class adviser, Miss Katherine Rothenberger, and the remaining senior homeroom teachers who aided her in her task, the seniors modeled their high school activities after the school code. The senior teachers also played an important role by counseling and advising the seniors.

To make the entire year a success, many seniors sacrificed hours of time and large amounts of work, but through co-operation and unified class spirit, many things were accomplished. All the events took planning and preparation in order to make them a reality. The Class of 1962, in the four short years spent at North Side, became a closely knit unit which tried to maintain high standards and levels of performance for the following classes.

Seniors Find Fun In Winter Snows And Parties

Dick Brown holds the fort as Sylvia Grant, Marla Lantz, Nancy Woltz, Judy Cook, Carol Dowden, and Alice Newhauser lead the attack.

The Senior Play, "Best Foot Forward," Rated Hit;

Gale Hitchcock and Janet Bone help promote "Best Foot Forward."

"Best Foot Forward," a rollicking comedy with several musical numbers, was the senior play presented by the Class of 1962. Usherettes dressed as flappers, auditorium decorations, and a lively pit orchestra under the direction of Mr. C. William Hatt established the roaring Twenties atmosphere necessary for the play. A Charleston dance line added to the festive display in this light-hearted play.

The play took place at Winsocki Military Academy. As the curtain opened the cadets were planning for the annual spring dance at the school. All were enthused about the event except Bud Hooper (Les Hiatt), who had invited Gale Joy (Lynda High), a failing movie star, to the dance. When she unexpectedly accepted in order to gain publicity, Bud was faced with the problem of having two dates for the dance. Helen (Kathy Bookout), his other date, showed up then. A hilarious climax was reached when Bud was threatened with expulsion from school and was trying to placate his two dates. However he managed to solve his many problems in his usual bumbling fashion.

The entire cast was aroused to defend Les Hiatt at the climax of the senior play when Bob Romy tried to oust him from school.

Praised By All Viewers

Breaking into song are Mike Levin, Pat Mullins, Jim Foster, Bev Brockett, Ray Beights, Sharon Evans, Cherry Crandall, and George Fuzy.

Lee Hiatt and Lynda High pose for Norman Kurtz of the Daily Bugle while Les' date, Kathy Bookout, and the press agent, Martin Walter, show their disapproval.

Seniors give a last-minute pose before leaving on the Washington-Williamsburg trip during spring vacation.

Events Of Final Year Provide Memories And Special

The student speakers aroused memories by giving a countdown of our high school years. Then Rev. Armin Oldsen outlined the future.

Seniors Jim Roberts, Joan Shimer, Jim Miller, Alice Neuhauer, Steve Shimer and Teresa Richard gather for an informal party before the prom.

Meaning For Graduates

The senior year of the Class of 1962 was launched with a red carpeter celebration before the senior door with the theme, "Reigning, Class of '62." In their final year at North Side, the seniors accomplished many activities. In the fall, the senior play, "Best Foot Forward," was presented successfully. As the days grew longer and the snows began to fall, senior minds turned to the next social function, the senior banquet. Speaking on the theme of the banquet, "Countdown," was Reverend Armin C. Oldsen. Complementing these regular senior activities were the usual number of dances, basketball and football games, and parties. Also, the seniors learned about poetry, physics, and government.

When spring came, the senior prom was held at the Scottish Rite Auditorium and featured Jimmy Stier's orchestra. Baccalaureate and the annual Senior Day paved the way for the final event of the high school years, Commencement. Although Commencement meant separation for the senior class, and many of the seniors would not meet again, the joys shared will never depart from their minds. While at North Side, the class has received much education and experience in mental, spiritual, and social situations. As they remember the many friends and joyful memories of the past, they can look forward to the future.

Use of the senior door becomes a memory for graduating seniors.

Juniors Plan Many Activities To Finance Prom

Steve Doan, president; Bob Cummins, secretary-treasurer; Lou Bojrab, vice-president; and Susan Housholder, social chairman, guided the Class of 1963 through its first year as upperclassmen.

As the first class to enter North Side from the new junior high schools, the Class of 1963 became a unified group. In the first year as upperclassmen at the Dome, the juniors elected the following officers: Steve Doan, president; Lou Bojrab, vice-president; Bob Cummins, secretary-treasurer; and Susie Housholder, chairman of the social council. The election of these officers was unique in that Bob Cummins was unopposed in his candidacy.

Many social and scholastic events were undertaken by the officers with the co-operation of the social council, consisting of Jack Aiken, Rick McLean, and Ronn Armstrong. The class advisers were Miss Elizabeth Little and Mr. John Malott. In order to finance the prom, the juniors sponsored a record hop, "Peppermint Twist," and an all-school play, "Ebb Tide," the junior prom, was held at the Scottish Rite Ballroom on April 28. Woody Neff provided the music for this memorable event. As the junior year drew to a close for the Class of 1963, it looked forward to its last year as seniors.

First Year As Upperclassmen Is Filled With New

Juniors Kathy Haughey, Karen Kelsey, and Susie Smith make candy decorations to accent the theme of the dance, the "Peppermint Twist."

While Carol Johnson polishes the routine for a half-time show, twirler Pam Nuzum shines Helen Hallien's boot as last-minute preparations are in order.

"'Twas the night before Christmas," and Steve Zollars and Don Hiltz peer up the chimney in hope that St. Nicholas soon will be there.

Experiences, Memories

"Unlock the door!" shout four juniors as they bum a ride home.

Disc jockeys, Dave Kinne, Jerry Bryce, and Vicki Jornod, prepare to spin the top records at the "Peppermint Twist," the dance sponsored by the Junior Class.

Eager Sophomores Become Full-Fledged Redskins

Sophomore class officers are Lindy Moellering, chairman of the social council; Rich Fryer, secretary-treasurer; Denny Thompson, president; and Steve Beights, vice-president.

Since most of the sophomores came from two junior high schools, Lakeside and Northwood, to join the sophomores who had attended North last year as freshmen, their class elections were not held until the beginning of the second semester to allow them to become better acquainted. While the seniors and juniors were busy campaigning for their elections, the sophomores attended several guidance programs. In addition to extra individual counseling, Mrs. Grace Pennington, who is the head sophomore guidance counselor, arranged many varied programs. Several outside speakers were brought in for these occasions. They were Earl Schwalm who gave the sophomores economic advice, Louis Bloom who spoke on patriotism, Dr. Dayton Musselman who talked about juvenile delinquency, and Rev. Larry Loving who compared the New Zealand school system to ours. These guidance programs were intended to help the tenth graders to more thoroughly understand the responsibilities they must meet as high school students.

Going against common beliefs, Don Bernard's dog, Freddy, seems to enjoy being washed by his master and Art Fruechtenicht.

Election Of Officers

Susi Lotter laughs at the predicament she and Karen Hill have gotten into while packing for a Florida trip they took this winter.

Sophomores Norma Earl, Susan Flickenger, Doris Houser, Susan Peters, and JoEllen Gantner all join in to make their pizza a culinary masterpiece.

1962 Boasts Traditions,

This may be the easiest way to get to the Sectional through the annual heavy snows which again plagued the tournament. Spirits were high at Sectional time until Saturday afternoon when Elmhurst sneaked by the Redskin team.

"The Twist" wore out Redskins, their shoes, and the dance floor.

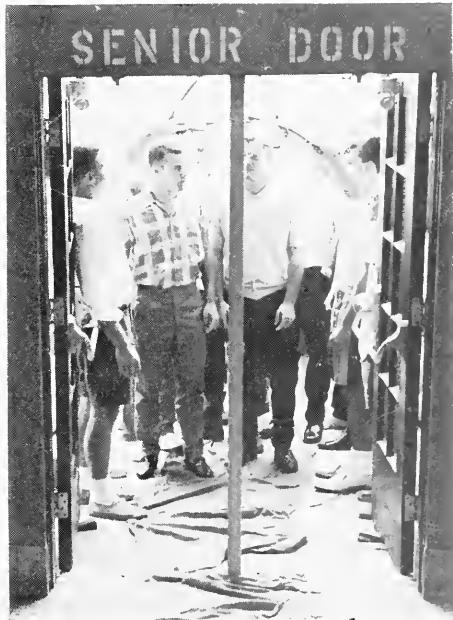

Miss Gross, or rather Mrs. Young, and her husband cut their wedding cake in celebration of their marriage this year.

Fads, And Unique Events

Every class gets its chance to experience the privileges, honors, and special events which are available only to seniors. One tradition of the graduates is taking the Senior Poll, which indicates those who are considered best in the opinion of the greatest number of people.

The Class of 1962 voted Paul Raver and Nancy Woltz most likely to succeed; Larry Scott and Teresa Richard, most courteous; Mark Krieg and Barb Rider, best athletes; Jim Roberts and Jill Gerding, most engaging personalities; Bill Kelley and Donnie Kurtz, best looking. Also, Les Hiatt and Pat Mullins, best actor and actress; Ray Beights and Sherry McKay, best musicians; Tom Garman and Carole Garrison, best senses of humor; Jim Orcutt and Bonnie Dolnick, best speakers; Steve Shimer and Joan Shimer, biggest limes; Dave Wyss and Janine Peters, most studious; Dick Brown and Sally Johnson, most service to school; Bill Pool and Alice Espich, most bashful; Steve Larimer and Lynda High, best dancers.

Senior traditions were carried out in '62 with all their glory.

We Learn Through Organizations

Although the prime objective of a high school education is to help the individual attain a measure of academic skill and knowledge, it is realized that academic ability alone does not constitute character. One cannot hope to achieve full stature without skill in dealing with others. Therefore, the student at North Side is offered a number of opportunities beyond the scope of the average classroom to help round out his personality.

At North Side, chances for this growth are provided by over thirty activities and organizations in the fields of athletics, music, journalism, and various academic realms. From out of the ranks step hundreds of Redskins who join together in the activities which interest them most. As a result, these individuals gain experience which may prove valuable in future years in a variety of areas, while the school and community benefit from the services which the organizations sponsor.

Editor Jack Hamilton spends one of many nights after school figuring picture proportions so that pictures can be cropped.

Assistant editor Maria Lantz keeps busy writing accurate descriptions of each photo so cutlines for each may be written.

Legend Staff Acquires Valuable Experience In

"They're all good," exclaims Nancy Woltz to Betty Lindegren as both evaluate pictures to be used for the activities section.

Jack Hamilton edited this year's Legend and Marla Lantz assisted him. Karen Seibert served as copy editor with Larry Thompson as her assistant. The index section of the Legend was edited by Pam Johnson, who was assisted by Becky Montgomery. Under the direction of Jim Orcutt and assistance of Dick Brown the sports section was produced. This year's faculty section was edited by Teresa Richard with Joyce Hayhurst as her assistant. Alice Neuhauser, with assistant Nancy Coleman, directed the academic department. Barb Rider, Betty Lindegren, and Suzy Housholder assisted Nancy Woltz in composing the activities section.

Jim Roberts, with Joan Shimer and Richard Willis as assistants, edited the senior section. The junior section was headed by Jeanne Keller with Judy Pontius as her assistant. Under the direction of Sally Johnson, with Cathy Hein as her assistant, the sophomore section was planned. Sue Leamon served as art editor, and Susi Richards and Judy Delk assisted her. Sylvia Grant, business manager, was assisted by Jackie Kiel. Photographers were Myron Huffman, Dave Laws, Tom Cross, and Jerry Nissenbaum. This year's Legend was under the supervision of Miss Norma Thiele, publications adviser.

Sally Johnson, anxious to help Alice Neuhauser and Barb Rider finish their section on time, busily types copy for both.

Editing, Photography

Joan Shimer, Sue Leamon, and Nancy Coleman concentrate on finishing those last few lines of copy.

Business manager Sylvia Grant and assistant business manager Jackie Kiel add up the daily receipts at the end of each day, hoping the result will be balanced books.

School News, Student

Second semester editor Jim Nolan meets with his new staff to discuss circulation promotion for the coming year.

John Briggs and Jim Jewell experiment with ad layouts.

Reporters Alice Bower and Dee Coughlin meet the deadline.

Views Reach Community Through The Northerner

Working on the Northerner provides training for future journalists and preparation for future citizens. The great responsibility of meeting the deadline matures participating students, and personal contact with school personnel and other students educates the staff in human relations.

The business staff included the following: Susie Gramling, circulation manager; Jim Jewell, assistant circulation manager; Tom Bruck, ad manager; and advertising staff, Rick Clements, Karen Hill, Mimi Horne, Sue Lotter, and Jean Rader.

Alice Bower collected and edited the classroom news. Jean Rader and Pat Tweedy were in charge of sending the Northerner to other schools. Marty Gehron recorded the journalistic points, and Becky Montgomery managed the office. Miss Norma Thiele advised the staff.

"Say, that's pretty good!" exclaims Photographer Dave Laws. The other photographers studying the picture are Jerry Nissenbaum, Tom Cross, and Myron Huffman.

George Bryce and Judy Smith count and fold Northerners so that the papers can be distributed to homerooms on Friday.

Quill And Scroll, 1500 Club Honor Journalists

Quill and Scroll, an honorary organization, provides recognition for individuals who have done outstanding work in journalism. Members must be seniors in the upper third of their class and must be considered valuable members of the school's journalism department. The club is designed to promote a better understanding of publication problems.

Quill and Scroll co-operates with 1500 Club in planning the publications banquet held in January and the picnic held in May.

As a student writes articles and has them published in the Northerner, he accumulates points toward membership in 1500 Club. This club is a national journalism honorary society, designed to recognize students who have completed a required amount of work and received 1,500 journalism points.

This club, under the direction of Miss Norma Thiele, is a non-profit club. All members take an active part in planning the publications banquet held in January, and the picnic, held in the spring.

Seniors who were elected to this year's Quill and Scroll honorary society as a result of outstanding work in journalism are Jack Hamilton, Sylvia Grant, Bonnie Dolnick, and Marla Lantz.

Scientists Learn By Performing Experiments

Phy-Chem, composed of students in Physics and Chemistry classes, was established to further interest in this field of physical science. This interest is promoted by experiments, movies, and lectures. To obtain funds for carrying out their yearly activities, Phy-Chem co-sponsors an after-game record hop. This year the dance was held on February 9th, following

Student Council officers Mark Krieg, Sharon Schultz, Judi Cook, Dick Brown, Scott Werling, and Al Haney discuss plans for the honor study hall with Mr. Robertson.

Establishing a closer contact between the faculty and the student body, the Student Council strives, under the direction of Mr. O. Dale Robertson to handle any problems which might arise in the student body. It also leads various community projects which are connected with the school, such as the collection for the United Fund.

The officers which lead the council in its various projects for the year were Dick Brown, president; Mark Krieg, vice-president; Judi Cook, secretary; Sharon Schultz, treasurer; Al Haney, sergeant-at-arms; and Scott Werling, parliamentarian.

Some of the projects which these officers were responsible for include their most important exploit, the Honor Study Hall, the supporting of two war orphans, Chrysoula Patsiouna from Greece, and Giang Hia from Korea, an annual after-game dance which was held on November 18, and was called "Seasonal Interlude." Another important project which the Student Council sponsors each year is the supporting of needy families. Each homeroom selects a family through the Christmas Bureau and supplies used clothing and food for this family. An assembly is held in which all this food and clothing is placed in the gym.

At a cabinet meeting, officers make plans for the semester.

"Ho! Ho! Ho! Merry Christmas!" shouted jovial Santa as he greeted the residents of the Allen County Home at the traditional Christmas party presented by Helicon Club. Although Helicon is a literary study organization, its services to the school and community are outstanding. Helicon members sponsored the Lincoln-Washington Assembly and gave a gift of new flags for the auditorium. The annual paperback book sale, held in the cafeteria this year to reach more students again encouraged the reading of classics.

"Russian Literature" was the theme for the first semester. Members discussed the works of famous Russian writers, and the topic was highlighted at the potluck dinner by Wayne Rothgeb's talk on his trip to the Soviet Union.

Globetrotters Participate In Vicarious Travel

Globetrotters provides a means whereby members study world affairs and their effects on the world's populace. The club plans a biennial trip to Washington and Williamsburg for North Side students, providing "scholarships" for two students who could not otherwise go on the trip. Its social functions included the first after-game dance of the year, a Christmas party, and a spring picnic. Working with the students on their plans are the advisers, Miss Katherine Rothenberger and Mr. Harry Young.

Junior Classical League Studies Roman Culture

"Veni, vidi, vici!" "Gallia est omnis divisa in partes tres . . ." Such are the utterings heard around the club room on J.C.L. nights. For those who, at the mention of Latin, envision bearded scholars draped in togas, one glance at the group discloses that, quite to the contrary, the Junior Classical League is a strictly modern club composed of students with enough devotion to the classical tradition to spend an hour or two a month in further pursuit of knowledge in an atmosphere of fun and enjoyment. Under the guidance of Miss Judith Bowen, Mrs. Amelia Dare, and Mrs. Janet Weber, the club strives to promote knowledge and understanding of Roman culture, civilization, literature, and art in a scope beyond that of the classroom. The League is a national organization, which, in the past, North Side's chapter has helped support by sending delegations to both the state and national conventions, and by participating in the scholarship program.

Linguists Apply Knowledge To Practical Use

Modern Language Club, under the supervision of Miss Frances Plumanns and Mr. Paul Lemke, strives to give students a greater knowledge of the cultures and languages of French and Spanish-speaking countries.

This year's activities included a Christmas party, a spring picnic, and a report by Judy Leach and Janine Peters on their trip to Mexico last summer.

Profits from the after-game dance were used to purchase Spanish and French dictionaries and a record player for the Foreign Language Department.

Marilyn Mutch served as president and Rich Franck as vice-president. Diana Dellinger was secretary; Judy Pontius, treasurer; Carol Johnson, social chairman; and Marianne DeWeese and Roger Fawley, membership chairmen for the Spanish and French departments, respectively.

Judy Leach shows a club member a souvenir from Mexico.

Daffi Dabblers Use Talent To Benefit Others

Mary Guisinger's small friend seems fascinated by her art work.

Daffi Dabblers gives its members an opportunity to display their talents, and also benefits others by community and school service projects. Of the numerous projects this year, a new activity, painting Christmas scenes on the windows of the children's ward at Parkview Memorial Hospital, was the highlight. A traditional school service performed by the club is the decorating of North Side during the Yuletide season.

Many of the club meetings were workshops, at which the members worked on the various projects. When the Daffi Dabblers were not working on special activities, their programs featured outside speakers, who presented such topics as art scholarships. In this way the amateurs learned about careers in art.

Student leadership for the first semester was provided by Sally Johnson, president; Aubrey Kellogg, vice-president; Judy Smith, secretary-treasurer; Jeff Smith, historian; and Joanne Crull, social chairman. Miss Marjorie Bell and Mr. Donald McClead served the club as sponsors.

Domeland Orators Rank High In Speech Points

North Side's speech club, National Forensic League, was awarded the honor of ranking fifth in the nation with points, which are earned by individuals in various speech contests. The club strives to promote the interests of inter-scholastic debate, oratory, and public speaking by encouraging a spirit of fellowship and by conferring upon deserving candidates a worthy badge of distinction.

Its forthcoming projects are always posted on the 312 bulletin board for all interested persons to see. The club scheduled more than thirty speech contests this season in which all students were welcomed and encouraged to compete.

The club's main social function this year was their December 2nd dance, "Snowball Stomp." Serving as this year's officers were president, Vicki Jornod; vice-president, David Wyss; secretary-treasurer, Judy Reeves; and social chairman, Pamela Potts. The faculty adviser for NFL is Mr. Stanley Lee.

Francis Thompson and Jim Orcutt lock horns in a debate.

Future Teachers Learn By Helping Instructors

Members of Nor-gro Future Teachers perform service work for teachers. As an additional service, the club sponsored a "flower for the teacher" day when they presented each teacher with a boutonniere or a corsage. During National Education Week the members publicized the importance of education and the opportunities in the teaching field.

Centered around school administration, the club programs featured a visit to the School Administration Building and talks by Mr. O. Dale Robertson, Mrs. V. G. Young, and Mr. William Anthis.

Luanne Lee served as president with the following members comprising her cabinet: Donna Dowell, vice-president; Susie Heffley, secretary; Julie Hoover, treasurer; and Margaret Slack, parliamentarian.

Sponsored by Mrs. Grace Pennington and Mr. James Lewinski, Future Teachers is a member of the Indiana Future Teachers Association, which is affiliated with the National Education Association.

Touring the School Administration Building, the group discussed student teaching requirements with Mr. C. A. Biedenweg.

Sharon Minear and Diana Warner pack books in boxes while preparing for the book drive for the Children's Home.

Under the direction of Mrs. Alice Nusbaum, Junior Red Cross undertook service projects throughout the year for the benefit of the school. Among these projects was the feeding of patients at the Veterans' Hospital and the adoption of an elderly person at the Allen County Home for the Aged. They take an active part in the "Book Drive," which is a collection of books for children at the Children's Home; they participate in "Game Night" at the Allen County Home for the Aged and the "Talent Show" at the Veterans' Hospital.

Each year, Junior Red Cross sponsors a dance in the school cafeteria, and participates in the planning of the City-County Council Dance held at the Coliseum.

The club, which was instituted shortly before 1940, had as its officers this year Janet Duxbury, president; Janet Steward, vice-president; Judy Mather, secretary; and Diana Warner, treasurer.

Key Clubbers Participate In School Service

With school service as their aim, Key Club annually puts out a directory containing the names, phone numbers, and addresses of all North Side students. They also participate in the "C.Q." program for the promotion of good citizenship and the Armistice Day tree-planting celebration. As a special project, and as a follow-up of the sanding operation last spring, the boys cleaned and waxed the desks in 316. "Cinder Scramble," held after the Sectional track meet, was the club's annual dance.

Mr. Clive Wert is the fourth period adviser, and Mr. Glen Bickel is the adviser for fifth period.

Math, Camera Clubs Incite Interest In Hobbies

The ultimate objective of the math club, Mu Alpha Theta, is to construct and operate its own electronic digital computer. To finance such an expensive project, the members sponsored a dance in co-operation with Phy-Chem after the Concordia game. Other activities included an ice skating party at Lakeside Park and a Christmas party. An expedition was planned to Chicago to visit the museums there.

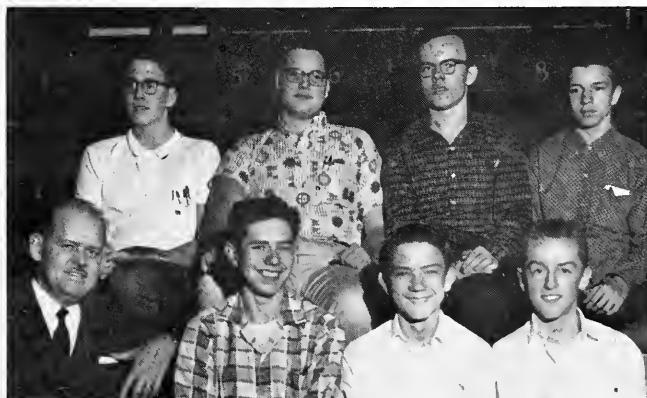

President of Mu Alpha Theta was Bob Ruch. Richard Willis was treasurer, and Lorraine Schwartz was secretary. Mr. Jerald Miller founded this chapter of the national organization, and he is the adviser.

Camera Club, under the direction of Mr. Myron Henderson, strives to train students in making and displaying still and motion pictures. This year the club has many projects in addition to regularly planned darkroom work. The organization had planned tours through a movie studio, an engraving company, and a professional film developing business. Guest talks were made by various news photographers throughout the city, and Mr. Charles Feller spoke to the club on photographer copy work.

Officers were Myron Huffman, president; Sam Spencer, vice-president; Tom Cross, secretary-treasurer; and Rick Lamprecht, darkroom manager.

Booster Club Promotes Interest In Athletics

Booster Club members assemble their wares for the tourney.

Working hand in hand with the cheerleaders, North Side's Booster Club promotes school spirit as well as student participation. It also gives pupils an opportunity to serve the school. The club operates a concession stand at the football and basketball games and at track meets. It provides and sells "school spirit" badges, shakers for the sectional tournament, "Red-skin" cushions, and stickers for automobiles. In reward for their service toward the student body and the team members, the club holds an annual Christmas party and spring picnic for its members. Letters are given as merit for outstanding work and co-operation.

In the fall, the Booster Club co-sponsors a football dance with the cheerleaders to supply sufficient funds for the yell leaders to travel to away games and also to buy senior cheerleading sweaters.

Providing the student leadership for the past year were these members: president, Shirley Keller; vice-president, Marcia Arney; secretary, Karen Butler; point recorder, JoAnn Arney; and student council representative, Jim Ford. These student officers work along with the faculty advisers, Mr. Noel Whittern and Mr. Dale Goon.

Sylvia Grant gives instructions to her fellow thespians—Lynda High, Jerry White, and Roger Haverfield. The members watching the drama are Sue Lantz, Bev Brockett, Norma Pieper, Cherry Crandall, and Dave Laws.

Actors, Musicians Create Cultural Atmosphere

The National Thespian Society recognizes and honors students who have done outstanding work in dramatics. Sponsored by Mr. James Purkhiser, the organization serves to create a more active interest in the dramatic arts. Social activities of the club were highlighted by its annual spring banquet held in conjunction with Daffy Dabblers.

Modern Music Masters is the newest of North Side's clubs. With a few basic differences, including its new name, the group is much like the old North Side Instrumentalists. Mr. C. William Hatt serves as the club's adviser. Its purpose is to further knowledge and appreciation of music and act as an aid to North Side's music department as a whole. After being in band or orchestra for a semester, one is eligible for membership. The 1961-62 officers were president, Bob Havens; vice-president, Dave Voelker; treasurer, Karen Seibert; secretary, Sally Johnson.

Varsity Band, Twirlers Assist Band At Games

Under the direction of Mr. C. William Hatt, Varsity Band serves as a training ground for Concert Band hopefuls and as a playing group for the musicians in the interim. Decked out in their uniforms of red sweaters and dark skirts or trousers, Varsity Band members provide music for concerts and home basketball games, and perform in the Northern Indiana solo, ensemble, and organization contests.

"I'm freezing!" is a familiar exclamation heard from many twirlers during the nipping cold of football season. Under the direction of drum major Dave Meyer and head majorette Cathy Kogin, the twirlers marched this year for parades, and football pre-game and half-time shows. They twirled for all of the home basketball games in their new uniforms, which are red with white braid trimming.

Underclass Singers Aspire To Join A Cappella

Practicing in different sections third and seventh periods on Mondays and first period on Tuesdays and Thursdays, the Male Choir seldom meets in one piece. Until a few years ago, the Male Choir was an independent group meeting solely on the members' own time. Since then the choir has become an official training period for A Cappella and Triple Trio.

As any member of Girls' Choir discovers, more than musical skill is necessary. The rehearsals first half of fifth period on Mondays and Wednesdays require patience and endurance—and the ability to postpone hunger pangs until 12:50. This and music too result from the efforts of these future members of Varsity Choir or A Cappella.

Choirs Lend Musical Atmosphere To Domeland

Gowned in black choir robes, sixty-nine Redskins lend their voices to the Varsity Choir. The group is composed of students who have had a year's experience in Girls' Choir or Male Choir. The group performs for civic concerts and provides further experience for those who would like to become members of A Cappella. The Fall and Christmas Concerts and a program presented at Francis Slocum School highlighted Varsity Choir's schedule for the year.

Second row: Ann Modricker, Marcia Zurbruegg, Karen Koenig, Jacqueline Carroll, Janene Huett, Carol Harwood, Sandy Puff, Kathy Ross, Susan Rice, Sharon Blough, Brenda Morgan, Sandra Parrar, Judi Cook, Judy Kammeyer.

By singing for various organizations and groups outside the school such as the Fort Wayne State School and for hospitals, A Cappella serves the community as well as North Side.

Within A Cappella are a Madrigal group, Triple Trio, and Chansonettes. The highlights of this year's concert season were three television tapes, a recording, the Christmas Concert, and the Christmas assembly.

Ripplettes Perform Aquatic Stunts, Ballets

Grace and co-ordination are necessary for a good dive.

Ripplettes is an organization of select swimmers who co-operate in furthering their water ballet skills, which are employed in presenting a water show at least biennially. The club meets each Wednesday after school for practice sessions; business meetings are conducted once a month. The Ripplette letter is presented to any passing the membership requirements; two-year pins and three-year bars are awarded after the required length of time has been completed. Three members, Karen Seibert, Anne Hastings, and Sylvia Grant, earned third-year bars.

The club's main activities included a potluck and swim for the members' families and faculty guests on November 29th, the water show on March 16th and 17th, a special performance for the Senior Mothers Tea on May 10th, and the Ripplette banquet on May 29th. This year's officers were president, Jeanne Keller, secretary-treasurer, Barb Thompson, and water show director, Anne Hastings. Mrs. Jeanne Gause is the club's adviser.

Female Athletes Promote Good Sportsmanship

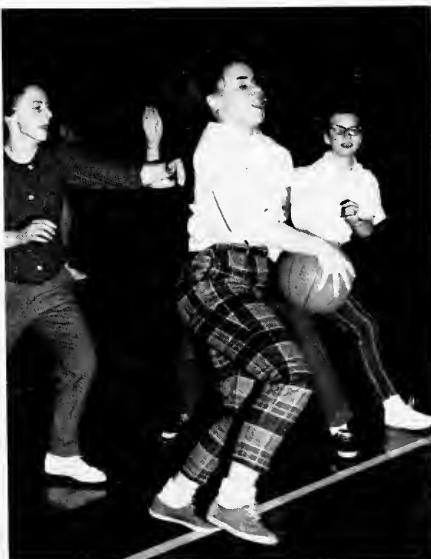

Volleyball, tennis, basketball, and archery were just a few of the sports on the Girls' Athletic Association's calendar. Activities were held regularly after school with business meetings once a month.

The organization gave its members the opportunity to earn a school letter. Two hundred fifty points were required for this award. With one hundred fifty points a member was awarded numerals. Three hundred fifty made her eligible for the state award, the highest GAA award. These points were obtained by participation in the various club activities.

The club had its annual banquet for members and alumni. Featured on the program were a guest speaker and representatives of each of the classes. A highlight of the banquet was the traditional speech from a graduating member reviewing what GAA has meant to her in her years at North Side.

Linda Kaiser presided at the business meetings. Her fellow officers were Donna Lechleitner, vice-president; Helene Riedel and Helen Miller, co-secretaries; Mary Ann Mullins, treasurer; and Marlene Thomas, senior representative.

Sponsored by Miss Ruth Carroll, it is affiliated with the Indiana High School GAA.

Lettermen's Association Honors Star Athletes

North Side's lettermen help carry out projects of various kinds to aid in school organization, especially those relating to athletics. The main objective, therefore, is to weld the lettermen into a unit for this purpose. Its activities include planning and carrying out a basketball pep session and governing the boys' cheer block. Serving as this year's officers were president, Mark Krieg; vice-president, Steve Larimer; secretary-treasurer, Scott Werling. The club advisers are Mr. Rolla Chambers, Mr. Bill Williams, and Mr. By Hey.

"Y" Groups Promote International Friendship

A highlight of Hi-Y's year was the participation in a city-county basketball league. Because of its increased membership the club entered two teams.

The club sold "North Side" sweat shirts for their money-making project. With these additional funds they helped buy the twirler uniforms. An additional school service performed by Hi-Y was the decorating of the goal posts at the City Series football games.

Mr. John Malott and Mr. Robert Pugh are the advisers.

We Learn Through Competition

Sports and competition have always been popular among men, and from their games developed a sense of fair play and good sportsmanship. The moral values acquired through keen competition influence the daily lives of athletes, as well as the lives of spectators.

North Side has long been known for the active participation of its students in sporting events. Every Redskin has the opportunity to partake in some form of physical recreation and development. Varsity sports include football and cross country in the fall, basketball in the winter, and track in the spring. Reserve squads give valuable experience to future varsity team members. In addition to physical education classes, an active intramural program is at the disposal of those boys who are not in inter-scholastic sports. Girls may participate in the GAA after school. Those who are good swimmers may try out for Ripplettes; those skilled in acrobatics may become cheerleaders.

Redskins Hand Upset To

By Hey's fighting Redskins bounced back from a six-game losing streak to cop six out of the next seven games. Of these victories, one was a twenty-six-point romp over Elmhurst in the Holiday Tourney, which North Side won; another was a thirty-six-point smash against rival South Side, one of four Red defeats in a row for the Green. In city competition North was beaten only by Central, but otherwise managed to conquer Elmhurst and South twice each, and to defeat Concordia and Central Catholic once each. C.C. emerged victorious in the City Series race, however.

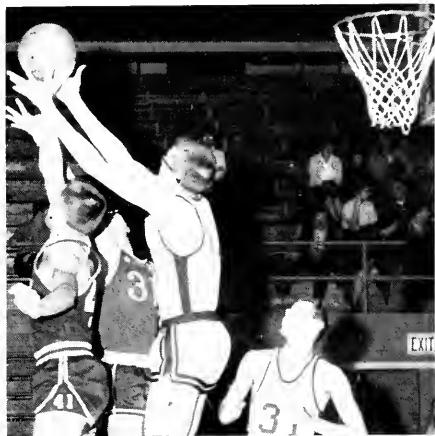

In conference play, the North Siders could muster only last place, but the season's highlight came in out-of-town play when they cracked South Bend Adams by a sixteen-point margin to keep those netters from the conference title.

Although favored to take the sectional, the 'Skins suffered a three-point upset at the hands of Elmhurst in the third round. However, Monroeville and Huntingdon, county jinxes, were stopped by North.

While the crew compiled an 11-12 record, they still won their average game by a 66-63 tally, firing from the field at a .381 clip. An interesting fact about the team is the preponderance of juniors; of the starting twelve, only two were seniors, Mark Krieg and Jim Hoar, and one was a sophomore, Herb Summers. Steve Esterline was voted most valuable player.

Redskin Coach By Hey earned it during the C.C. Holiday tourney.

Studied teamwork earmarked the basketball team and allowed it to play tight control ball or shift into a fast break. Sincere desire to win enabled the 'Skins to create a tight defense. Play was well balanced among juniors and sophomores.

Cindermen Display Balance Of Power And Speed

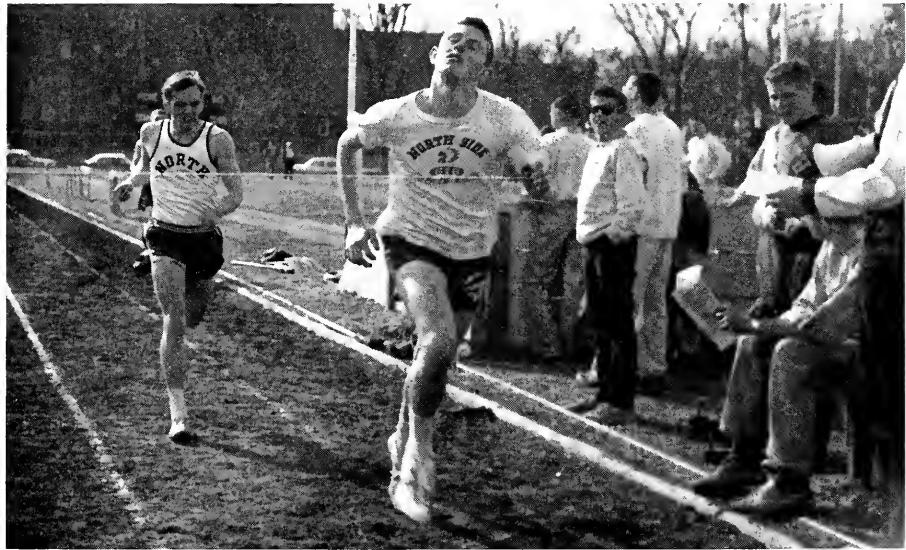

Track Coach Rolla Chambers, after sending last year's team to a fifth place berth in the state meet, is developing a team with much better balance. The mile and half-mile relays are very strong. Meyers, Konow, and Esterline early in the season had turned in exceptional times. Dashes and relays are also very powerful. Said Coach Chambers: "High hurdles are our only weak event, but should improve with experience." Early in the season, the 'Skins dominated every field event in city competition.

'61 Season On Gridiron

The fighting Redskins battled enthusiastically right up to the last game, in which they climaxed a rugged season by engineering a grisly goal line stand in the teeth of a driving Riley line. That enthusiastic team spirit pervaded throughout the entire North Side team is shown by the fact that at the season's close, sixty-four boys were still out for varsity football. Desire to play remained strong even in defeat.

"Although the backfield was composed of gridiron veterans of former years, the line was young, big, and slow, and the entire team suffered from an overall lack of speed. Next year the veterans composing the line should have knitted into quite an effective and powerful unit, in co-ordination with a core of skilled line backers moving up to fill the shoes of the graduating backfielders," remarked Coach Bill Williams.

The North Side reserve football team compiled a record of six wins and no losses while outscoring their opponents 139-20 during those six games. A speedy backfield was the team's strongest point. Second Place In State

The North Side cross country team copped the Eastern Division Northern Indiana Conference, the Two Division Conference, the Fort Wayne Sectional harrier meet, and placed a very close second in the state cross country meet, their only loss of the season. In season competition the Redskins reigned undefeated, despite a rugged schedule.

Coach Rolla Chambers accredited the success of this year's team to the hard work, eager desire, and definite ability of the current Redskins. Gary Myers was the number one man, placing sixth in this year's state meet, and proved to be the mainstay of the harriers. Coach Chambers relates, "Gary never had a bad day."

The core of junior runners which was very strong will be back. "The best group of cross countrymen I ever had," remarked Chamebris.

for keeps in the Fort Wayne Sectional tournament. As the final buzzer sounded, Redskins were filled with disbelief.

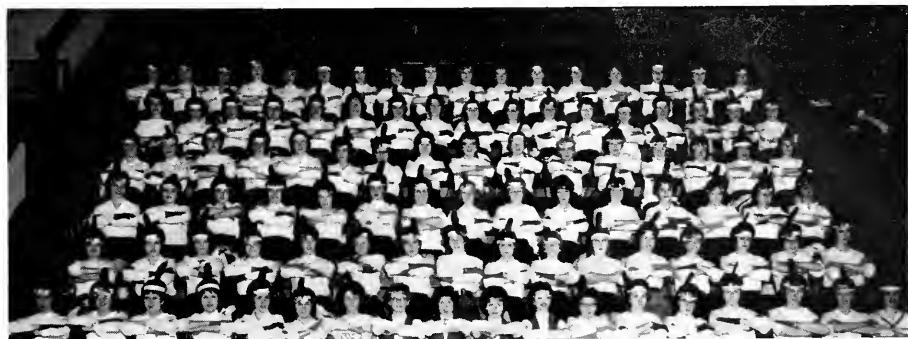

Reserve cheerleaders: Cheryl Evers, Claralyn Shearer, Kay Nemyer, and Jackie Richards.

Chosen by a group of judges composed of faculty members and students, the varsity cheerleaders were Barb Rider, Susie Heffley, Carla Wolfe, Lynda High, and Marilyn Mutch. They showed excellent leadership and co-ordination and provided color and enthusiasm at all basketball and football games. They kept our spirits high and our pep up whether our team was winning or losing. The cheerful faces of the varsity cheerleaders never failed to bring the fans through the more gloomy moments. The reserve squad, made up of Claralyn Shearer, Kay Nemyer, Jackie Richards, and Cheryl Evers, led cheers at reserve games and assisted in pep sessions.

The cheering block helps channel student cheering and spirit along the right path. Made up of Redskin lasses, the block was formed for the ninth year.

Swimming Is Latest Addition To Mr. Don Kemp's

Mr. Donald Kemp, intramural chief, prepares a win-loss sheet.

North Side's intramural program, enlarged even more over last year's program, was highlighted by bowling and a new swimming program under the supervision of Mr. Hyrle Ivy.

Mr. Don Kemp, over-all director of the intramural program, stated that although fewer boys have participated this year, they are developing a better program and interest remains high. Particularly popular, he noted, was bowling.

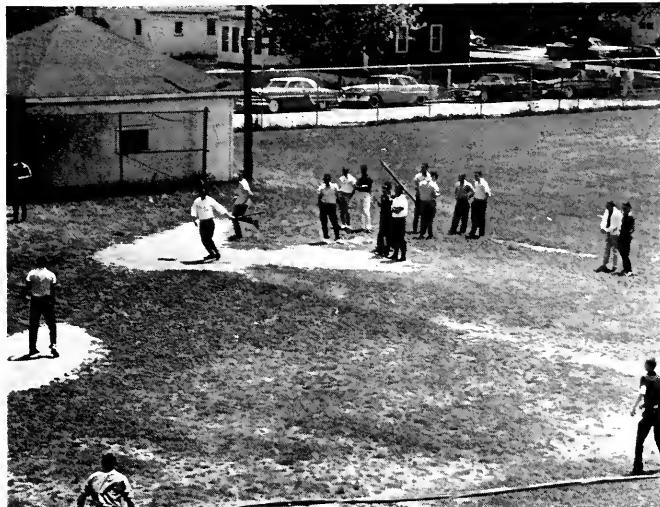

The function of the program is to provide a place and supervision for those who, although they are not in an athletic class, desire competition and exercise. Improved constantly by the suggestions of the participants and the direction of Mr. Kemp and his assistants, the intramural athletics now includes bowling, basketball, swimming, golf, track, softball, ping pong, volleyball, horseshoes, and weight training.

After careful deliberation on the green, Dave Schmidt confidently strokes his putt to make par.

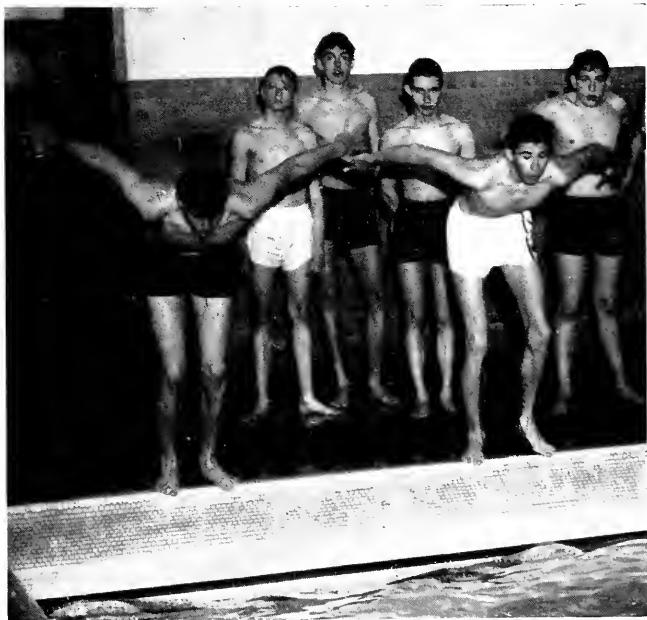

Program Of Intramurals

With spring comes softball, which is played by many Redskin boys during their lunch hours.

A newly instituted program this year is intramural swimming for the boys, under the direction of Mr. Ivy.

Physical Education Includes Extensive Exercise

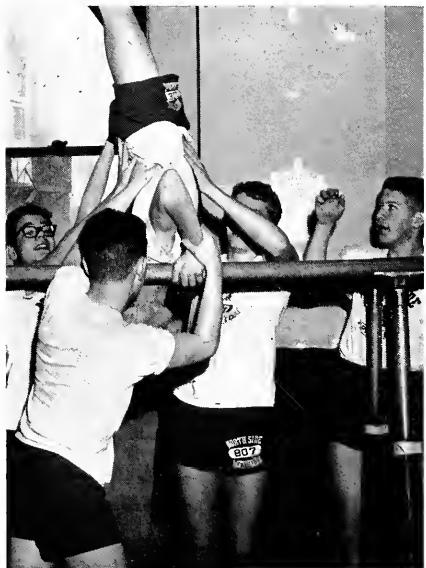

Surely, calisthenics is the most ungainly part of gym class.

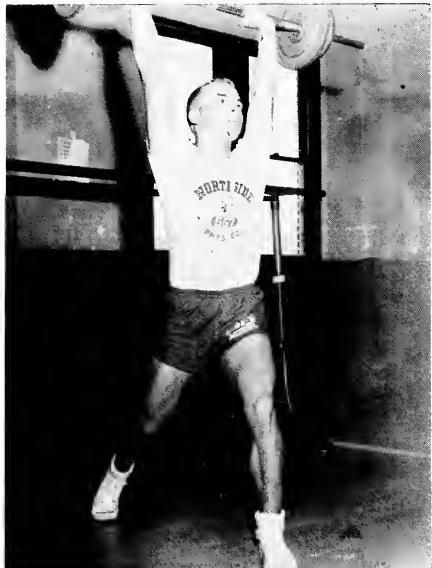

All sophomore boys who attend North Side are required to take part in the physical education program, which is divided into three areas—sports, physical development, and swimming. This program is designed to help the boys improve their bodies and co-ordination.

Every boy takes a series of tests at the beginning of the semester. According to the results, he is classified and put into a group of boys having equal abilities. Each group spends one-third of the semester in each of the three categories on a rotating system.

Mr. Hyrle Ivy's swimming classes give the non-swimmers an opportunity to learn, while the other boys practice and improve their swimming skills. In gym classes, led by Mr. By Hey, boys participate in games and sports to match the season. Softball, basketball, volleyball, and track are usually included. Mr. Don Kemp, in his physical development class, instructs boys in the proper use and handling of gymnastic and weight-lifting equipment. Long-distance running is also part of this program.

Care is exercised to prevent injury when working on the bars.

Weight-lifting helps build strong, firm muscles.

Sophomore girls practice the overhand stroke while in the security of shallow water.

Girls Learn Variety Of Skills In Gym Classes

Physical fitness and co-ordination are very important to the health of every high school girl. Because of this every girl in North Side is required to take either physical education or swimming for three years. Some girls will be taking physical education only two years because of the new three-year junior high plan.

Some of the various organized activities enjoyed by the "squaws" in physical education classes are volleyball, archery, basketball, softball, modern dancing, tennis, speed-away, and table tennis. Mrs. Jeanne Gause and Miss Ruth Carroll are the instructors.

The department again offered a physical education program for girls who cannot take part in the regular programs or for those who wish to take care of some special problem. Table tennis, badminton, and special exercise were stressed in this class.

Mrs. Gause instructs the swimming classes which are subdivided into four parts. These are beginning, intermediate, and advanced swimming and life saving. The girls learn to swim, learn the different strokes, practice and improve their strokes, and receive senior life saving badges for these four divisions.

In Closing . . .

The typewriters are silent now, the last piece of copy having been turned in months ago. There is no more need for the slide rule to figure proportions; all the pictures have been cropped and printed. Gone forever is the thrill of shouting at the photographers because that once-in-a-lifetime picture was out of focus. Past is the dread of all journalists—the deadline. At last the 1962 Legend is completed, and now it can serve its purposes—as a memory book, as an accurate record of this school year, and as a reference to what is now the past.

The Legend could not exist if it were not for the help and co-operation of everyone at North Side. The staff members deserve a tremendous amount of credit for the uncounted hours which they spent in the completion of their sections so that Redskins could have something more than a 160-page autograph book.

Thank you, everyone,
Jack and Marla

OPEN THIS YEARBOOK IN 1999

and it will be your photograph that you and your grandchildren look for first!

That's a lot of looking ahead but it illustrates the everlasting permanence the everlasting interest of a photograph.

That's why fine professional photographs are our concern

When you want a fine photograph taken again, entrust it to PhotoReflex—your official school Yearbook photographer.
